Introduction

QBE Insurance Group Limited (QBE) recognises that we have responsibilities not only towards our customers, employees and shareholders, but also the countries and communities in which we operate.

This means understanding and managing the impact we have on society and the environment, and investing in the future of our employees and the communities we serve.

In November 2017, QBE issued its inaugural Gender Equality Bond (Gender Bond) raising US$400 million in Additional Tier 1 capital (AT1). It was the first Gender Bond issued by an insurance company and only the second ever issued globally.

QBE is proud to be part of this innovative and evolving market.

Since the first report, QBE has continued to support its commitment to responsible investments, including investments in line with QBE's commitment to gender equality.

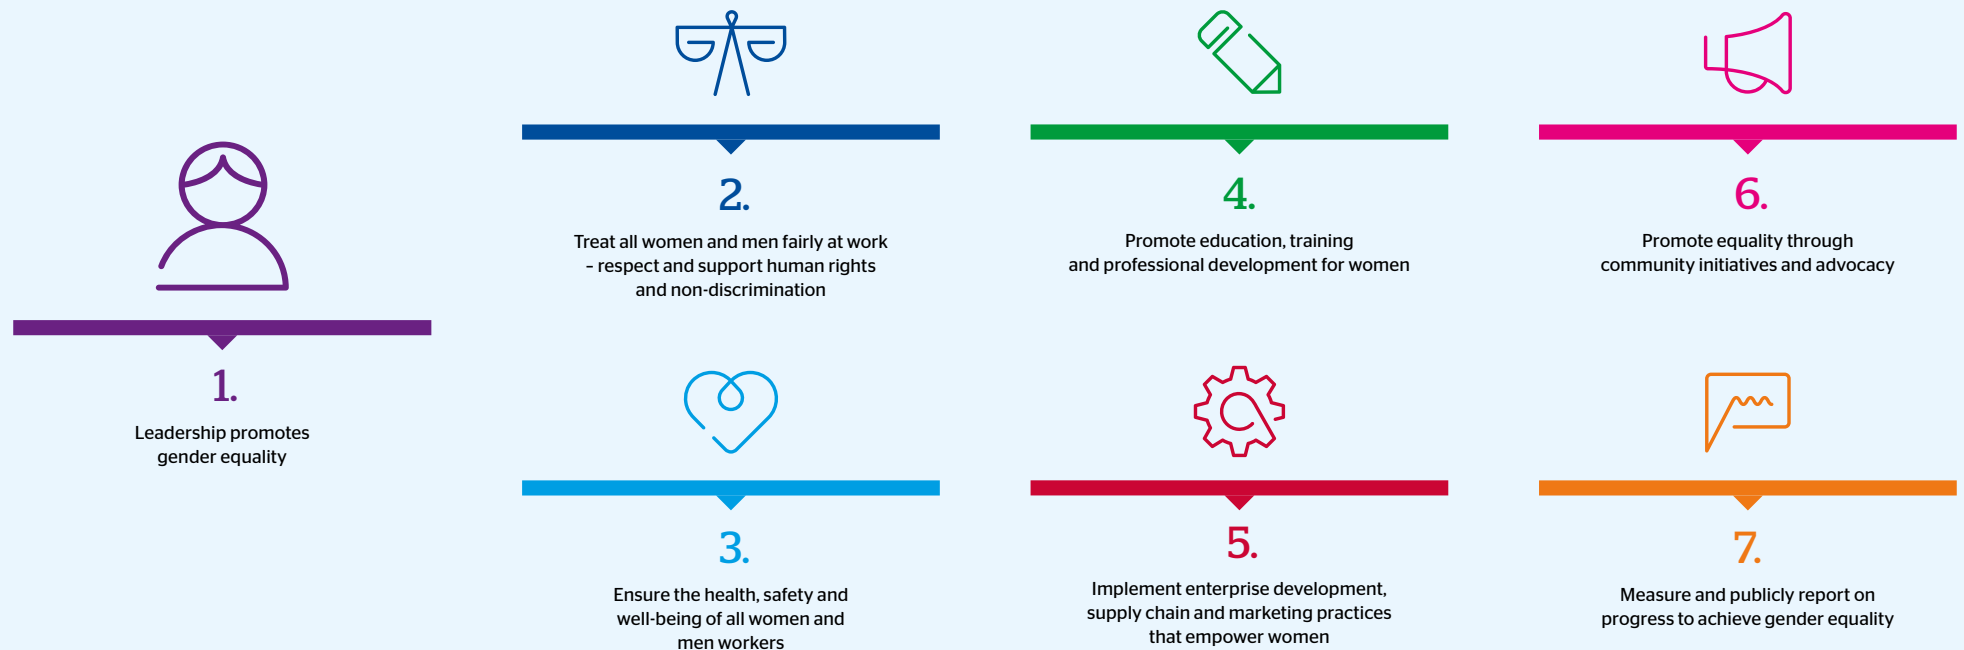

Compliance statement

As at 31 December 2022, QBE confirms that the Use of Proceeds of the Gender Equality Bond aligns with the criteria set out in the QBE Gender Equality Bond Framework. Sustainalytics has conducted an external review of the Gender Equality Bond Portfolio and 'based on the limited assurance procedures conducted, Sustainalytics believes the reviewed bonds funded through proceeds of QBE's Gender Equality Bond are in conformance, in all material aspects, with the Use of Proceeds and Reporting Criteria outlined in the Gender Equality Bond Framework'.

United Nations Women's Empowerment Principles¹

The United Nations Women's Empowerment Principles (UN WEPs) are a set of seven principles that offer guidance for business based on best practices from around the world. The UN WEPs were developed as a joint initiative between UN Women and the UN Global Compact.

QBE has invested in a range of companies that are a signatory to the UN WEPs and are strongly committed to gender equality in their workforce and in the wider community.

Framework summary

QBE's Gender Bond Framework aligns to the four core components of the International Capital Markets Association (ICMA) Social Bond Principles.

Use of proceeds

The proceeds of the QBE Gender Bond will be used towards the financing/refinancing of the Gender Bond investment portfolio, meeting our specific criteria under the QBE Gender Bond Framework, as detailed below. The bond must:

- have been issued by a company that is a signatory to the United Nations Women's Empowerment Principles (UN WEPs), a joint initiative of the UN Global Compact and UN Women; and
- have been issued by a company recognised in the current Equileap Gender Equality Global Report and Ranking.¹

Process for investment evaluation and selection

QBE identifies eligible bonds for inclusion in the portfolio that align with our specific criteria under the QBE Gender Bond Framework.

QBE has also developed a list of exclusionary criteria to ensure that it will not knowingly finance a cause that is not aligned to the ICMA Social Bond Principles.

Management of proceeds

QBE tracks the Use of Proceeds of the Gender Bond via internal information systems, with periodic adjustments to match allocations to eligible Gender investments made during that period.

Reporting

QBE will provide annual allocation and impact reporting to investors via the Gender Bond Progress Report and will engage an appropriate second party assurance provider to independently assure and verify the bond complies with the QBE Gender Bond Framework and UN WEPs.

Spotlight

Rebecca Crabb

MANAGING DIRECTOR,
Global Markets Chief Operating Officer,
Institutional Banking & Markets Division

What does 'diversity, equity and inclusion' mean to you?

Diversity, equity and inclusion means that no matter your gender, age, race, ethnicity, religion, or sexual orientation, you are treated with respect, given the same opportunities to progress your career, and feel included in the workplace. This is important to me professionally to ensure we have a diverse workforce with different perspectives and experiences who feel included and are able to succeed. It is also vital to me personally, as I have four children, two boys and two girls, either entering or soon to be entering the workforce, and I want to see each of them get the same opportunities and thrive without feeling any prejudices.

Do any particular areas come to mind that you believe have an important role to play in reaching beyond gender equality and diversity?

Awareness and reflection are critical in my view. We all have biases and recognising that we do can be uncomfortable. So it is really important to reflect on the way we make decisions to ensure that we consider all perspectives, be equitable in our approach, and challenge ourselves.

If you were to give one piece of advice to your younger self, what would that be and why?

Back yourself. There were many times in my career, particularly when I first returned to work after parental leave, when I did not always speak-up and believe in the value of my ideas or opinions. It was only as my confidence returned, I found my voice. But now looking back, I realise the more I use my voice, the stronger my confidence becomes.

Rebecca is the Chief Operating Officer for Global Markets and is responsible for leading, developing and driving the strategic direction and operational effectiveness of the business and its support functions. Rebecca is also the co-chair of the IB&M Inclusion and Diversity committee and on the board for Women in Banking and Finance.

Jacqueline Fox

Chief Climate Officer
- Strategy & Innovation

What has your organisation done to ensure diversity, equity and inclusion are reflected in all levels of the workplace?

NAB refreshed its Inclusion and Diversity (I&D) Strategy Framework in late 2021. Since then, NAB has established an I&D Council (a team of cross-divisional representatives to ensure all matters of inclusion are consistently and equally considered), implemented a new I&D governance structure to create greater accountability, improved I&D data collection and tracking to hold NAB to account, expanded communications to promote consistent inclusion messages across NAB, promoted an accessible and inclusive workplace through the enhancement of visible signage for parents' rooms, multi-faith rooms and gender-neutral bathrooms.

Support for the LGBTQIA+ community is an important part of the I&D Strategy. NAB Pride Employee Resource Group celebrated its 10-year anniversary as a group in 2022, and NAB renewed its ongoing sponsorship of the Midsumma Festival for another five years.

How would you advise younger generations to continue to drive future development of diversity, equity and inclusion?

Be the change you want to see in the world - role-model the behaviour you want to see from others, and speak up about any concerns or behaviours which undermine diversity, equity and inclusion principles. This approach is also captured in the core values of NAB - being respectful in speaking honestly and supportively especially about concerns, and doing what is right, even when it is hard.

Jacqui joined NAB in 2001 and has over 25 years of financial industry experience across a range of commercial and risk management disciplines. Jacqui has extensive leadership experience and is a director and chair on several NAB subsidiaries. Jacqui was previously an Executive for NAB's Capital Markets business and co-developed NAB's Corporate & Institutional Bank sustainability strategy and was also a Sustainability SteerCo member. Jacqui also participated in the development of NAB's Sustainability Strategy and is passionate about supporting and creating prosperity for customers in Australia's transition to a low carbon economy. Jacqui is also mother to four perpetually active teenagers/kids and enjoys Australia's great outdoors and travelling.

Spotlight

Siobhan Toohill

Chief Sustainability Officer

What has your organisation done to ensure diversity, equity and inclusion are reflected in all levels of the workplace?

Westpac has been a pioneer in driving diversity, equity and inclusion in the workplace – from being the first Australian company to provide paid parental leave, through to our commitments to support greater representation of First Nations Australians in our workplace. But we know that it needs to be more than a commitment – that we need to work hard at delivering real change, for our people, customers and the wider community. Listening, advocating and empowering for greater inclusion will enable us to be a better employer and provider of financial services, and play a responsible role in the wider community.

How is diversity, equality and inclusiveness reflected in the way your organisation does business?

While Westpac have commitments and targets in place, our approach to diversity, equality and inclusion are revealed in the interactions they have everyday, whether it is programs that seek to drive a more diverse workforce program such as the partnership with CareerTrackers, backing Indigenous interns or various Employee Action Groups which seek to build a safe and respectful work environment for all LGBTIQ employees and advocate for customers and employees with disability or accessibility requirements, as well as groups addressing cultural inclusion, women in leadership, 50+ and more. There is a genuine sense that inclusion matters – it is to be celebrated and this cuts right across the organisation. By getting it right within our workplace, we are better placed to understand and support our customers.

As Westpac's Chief Sustainability Officer, Siobhan leads the Group's sustainability strategy, with a particular focus on climate change, human rights and the emerging area of natural capital. Siobhan has also had wider governance roles, including as a board member of the Co-chair Banking Board in the United Nations Environment Programme Finance Initiative, Greater Sydney Parklands, and former deputy chair of the Green Building Council of Australia. Siobhan has also been recognised as a recipient of the AFR 100 Women of Influence (Board and Management Category).
